In the center, there's a dark green banner with the text "WIKIPROJECT ASTRONOMY" in white. To the right of the banner is a sidebar with a "Shortcuts" section containing "WP:SPACE" and "WP:AST". Below that is a "WikiProject Astronomy" section with "General information" and links for "Main project page", "Members", "Astronomy portal", and "Content".

The bottom of the page has a paragraph of text about the project's purpose and how to get involved, followed by a "Membership list" and a "Discussion" link.

The main content area starts with a section titled "From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia". It contains a message stating that the project is believed to be inactive and encourages users to look for related projects or ask at the Teahouse if they wish to participate.

In the center, there's a dark green banner with the text "WikiProject Solar System" in yellow. To the right of the banner is a sidebar with a "WikiProject Solar System" section containing "General information" and links for "Main project page", "Members", "Solar System portal", and "Content".
